Greetings all!

I hope you each have had a restful summer.

We had tentatively set a meeting for next Thursday, August 21, at 2 p.m. I would enjoy touching base with you and updating you on my work. However, I have not completed all the tasks I had set for myself this summer, and I would rather wait until I have completed them -- unless, after reading the status updates below, you think I have made enough headway to revisit the proposal. If so, please let me know and I will schedule a room.

If not, can we please reschedule for the third week in September (15-19)? I teach on Thursdays from 12:30 to 3:30, but can be available any other time. Thank you.

Here were my goals for the summer and a status report on each:

1) completing the IRB process for all three parts of the study.

Status: I emailed the ARC (Applications for Research Compliance) help desk and explained my dissertation research plans. I received a response indicating I did not need to submit my study for review. I have asked Dr. Kromrey to review my email and the ARC help desk's response to be sure I explained my study accurately and have correctly understood their response.

2) finish developing a codebook/protocol for the ECA and providing a sample analysis of one cartoon both as an example of ECA and as interpreted using the Four Levels of Visual Framing.

Status: I am working on the codebook. In doing so, however, I am realizing that rather than a two-stage study, I will be using the Four Levels of Visual Framing (and other interpretive tools) to determine the ECA categorizations. This type of interpretive analysis should enable me to attempt triangulation among the verbal, visual, and narrative data to establish an overall message or tone in each cartoon.

3) revising/rewriting the first three chapters to follow my new organizational flow.

Status: I have not completed this, but I am working on a review of the literature about mentor texts and have submitted this part of the study (with no mention of Walt Disney) as a proposal to AERA (see attached).

4) printing out each of the cartoons to be studied.

Status: Nope. Not done. Not even started.

This summer has been productive, although not entirely in the ways I expected.

- I attended the 2014 AERA conference in Philadelphia and attended a number of arts-based research sessions (dissertations written in comics form, dissertations being animated, dissertation data in letterpress, handwritten letters, poetry!!!), chaired two sessions on religion and education, and attended several spirituality in education sessions. At one of the latter sessions, there was a call for papers to which I responded ... and I ended up writing a chapter for book the SIG is putting together, using much of the information I studied during my independent study in 2012 with Dr. Mozella Mitchell in the Religion department and drawing on the work I studied in the Contemporary Rhetorics course I took this past spring with Dr. Marc Santos in the English department. I have received very positive comments from two reviewers and am working on suggested revisions.

- Additionally, Becky Powell and I have made two rounds of edits on another (invited) chapter on the Flat Stanley books. That project should be headed to the publisher this fall.
- I presented a paper at the Children's Literature Association in Columbia, SC.

And, on a more personal note, I took a three-week road trip with one set of kids/grandkids that was wonderful and much-needed.

Many thanks,

Anne

Hi Anne,

Thanks for the update. I would rather wait until September for our meeting (I'm currently flexible during the week of 15 September).

Take care,

Jeff

I agree with Jeff. I think your completion of 2 and 3 would provide the content for our discussion.

Hi Anne,

It sounds like it was a very productive summer—congratulations! With all that you accomplished, it makes sense that some items on your initial “To Do List” didn’t get finished (I’ve found that most things take longer than I expect, anyway). Let’s postpone for September.

Congratulations, Anne—keep up the great work!

Thomas

Hi Anne,

Thank you for the detailed update. I agree with everyone else about moving the committee meeting to September.

Glad you had the chance to get away and enjoy your family!

Would Thursday, September 18, at 10 a.m. OR at 4 p.m. be agreeable?

Thank you!

I can't meet at 10. I have a meeting at Berkeley at 8:45. I could probably do 11.

It appears some of us can meet only at 10 and some only at 4. Could you each please tell me what days/times you CANNOT meet during the week of September 15-19? I will work from that to create a Doodle.

Thank you!

Hi Anne,

The only bad times for me are late afternoons on Tuesday and Thursday, because of my courses. If we finish the meeting by 4:30, I'll be good to go.

Take care,

Jeff
